

Afternoon Tea

SERVED DAILY FROM 2.30PM UNTIL 5.30PM

Anna, the Seventh Duchess of Bedford (1783–1857), is credited with the invention of Afternoon Tea in 1840. In her days, “dinner” was not served until 8pm or 9pm and the Duchess often felt hungry late afternoon. One day she instructed her maid to serve a pot of tea and some light snacks in her room. These refreshments satisfied her hunger so well, that she ordered the same the next day and every afternoon thereafter.

Others followed the Duchess’ lead. In 1842, a well-known actress, Fanny Kemble, heard of Afternoon Tea and began inviting guests to join her. Shortly after, all of fashionable London was sipping tea and eating sandwiches and cakes in the middle of the afternoon.

In just a few decades, around the middle of the nineteenth century, the custom of “taking tea” in the afternoon had become well established, along with a complex set of rules and etiquette.

Respecting these exquisite traditions from the 1800s in modern-day Edinburgh, our celebrated Afternoon Tea is a real treat.

“There are few hours in life more agreeable than the hour dedicated to the ceremony known as afternoon tea”

TWININGS

In 1706 Thomas Twining set up as a tea merchant at 216 Strand, London. The firm has traded continuously ever since from the same address, an amazing and unique record. Now, as then, Twinings teas give the world unequalled pleasure and satisfaction.

As expert blenders for over 300 years, Twinings has sought out some of the most exclusive and rare teas and infusions to delight your senses. Let us take you on a virtual journey through the world of tea, bringing you tea tastes and rituals from far-flung locales, served in a way to highlight the beauty and culture of each particular tea ceremony.

Tea Service

The One Square Tea Service revolves around our Tea Trolley and Samovar.

A water boiling device used mainly in Russia and the surrounding regions, the Samovar dates back to the 1700s, and by the 19th century it had become a common feature of Russian tea service. Our tea service harks back to the elegance of this most civilised tradition.

The water in the Samovar is continually boiled and the tea pots we use are especially designed to bring out the best in each blend.

Once you have selected your tea we use the appropriate tea pot along with a timer to ensure a perfectly brewed cup each and every time.

To help guide you on your journey of discovery, a member of our expert team will talk you through our range of teas, giving you the opportunity to see, touch and smell before you taste!

THE ORIGINS OF TEA

The original origin of tea dates back to 2737 BC and Chinese Emperor Shen Nung's discovery when the leaves of a nearby tree fell into some water his entourage was boiling.
